

Hyphen Solutions Announces National Manufacturer now using Hyphen SupplyPro Connect

National Manufacturer Latest to Use Hyphen's Supply-Chain Solution

Addison, TX — January 31, 2010 — Hyphen Solutions announced that another national manufacturer servicing the home building industry is now using the Hyphen SupplyPro Connect application to electronically publish all order data from SupplyPro directly into their order-entry application. This manufacturer, who uses Hyphen's SupplyPro scheduling and supply-chain platform, chose SupplyPro Connect because it eliminates manual data entry – an efficiency more frequently being demanded by the largest builders.

“This is just another indication that the focus on supply-chain efficiencies is becoming more and more important to all parties in the home building community. Anybody dealing with entering data into an order-entry system struggles with the inefficiency, potential inaccuracy and high cost of such a manual process. SupplyPro Connect automatically populates the supplier's order-entry system with the data that originates in the builder's back-office system – in a matter of seconds, with nobody typing, faxing, emailing or making phone calls. This is the type of efficiency that Hyphen provides for the home building industry,” said Bob Swainhart, EVP Sales and Marketing.
